

Date: 27th June 2017

Publication: New Model Adviser (Web)

Journalist: Jack Gilbert

---

New Model Adviser

Tavistock launches three new ETF funds

AIM-listed wealth firm Tavistock has launched three new funds in a bid to give IFAs help with asset-specific strategies.

Tavistock today announced it has expanded its Acumen portfolio range from four to seven, with the launch of three new exchange traded funds (ETFs).

The firm is launching: the Acumen bond portfolio, which invests in emerging bond markets; the Acumen Equity Portfolio which has at least 80% exposure to emerging and developed market equities; and the Acumen Strategic Portfolio, which invests in a range of asset classes.

The new funds can be accessed through 20 different platforms or directly through the Authorised Corporate Director; Investment Fund Services Limited (IFSL).

Brian Raven (pictured), Tavistock chief executive, said the new funds will help with uncertainties for investors, including around Brexit.

Coverage reproduced under licence from the NLA, CLA or other copyright owner. No further copying (including printing of digital cuttings), digital reproductions or forwarding is permitted except under licence from the NLA, www.nla.co.uk (for newspapers), CLA, www.cla.co.uk (for books & magazines) or other copyright body.

‘We continuously assess our products to ensure that they protect investors in the face of political and economic uncertainties, such as those surrounding Brexit. We are now better able to mitigate risk with these additional funds and we have also increased the extent to which our overseas portfolio exposures are hedged back to sterling,’ he said.

Tavistock said in a statement that the funds were also launched ‘in response to a consistent demand from IFAs for asset-specific strategies’.